

St. Joseph High School

a story in the making

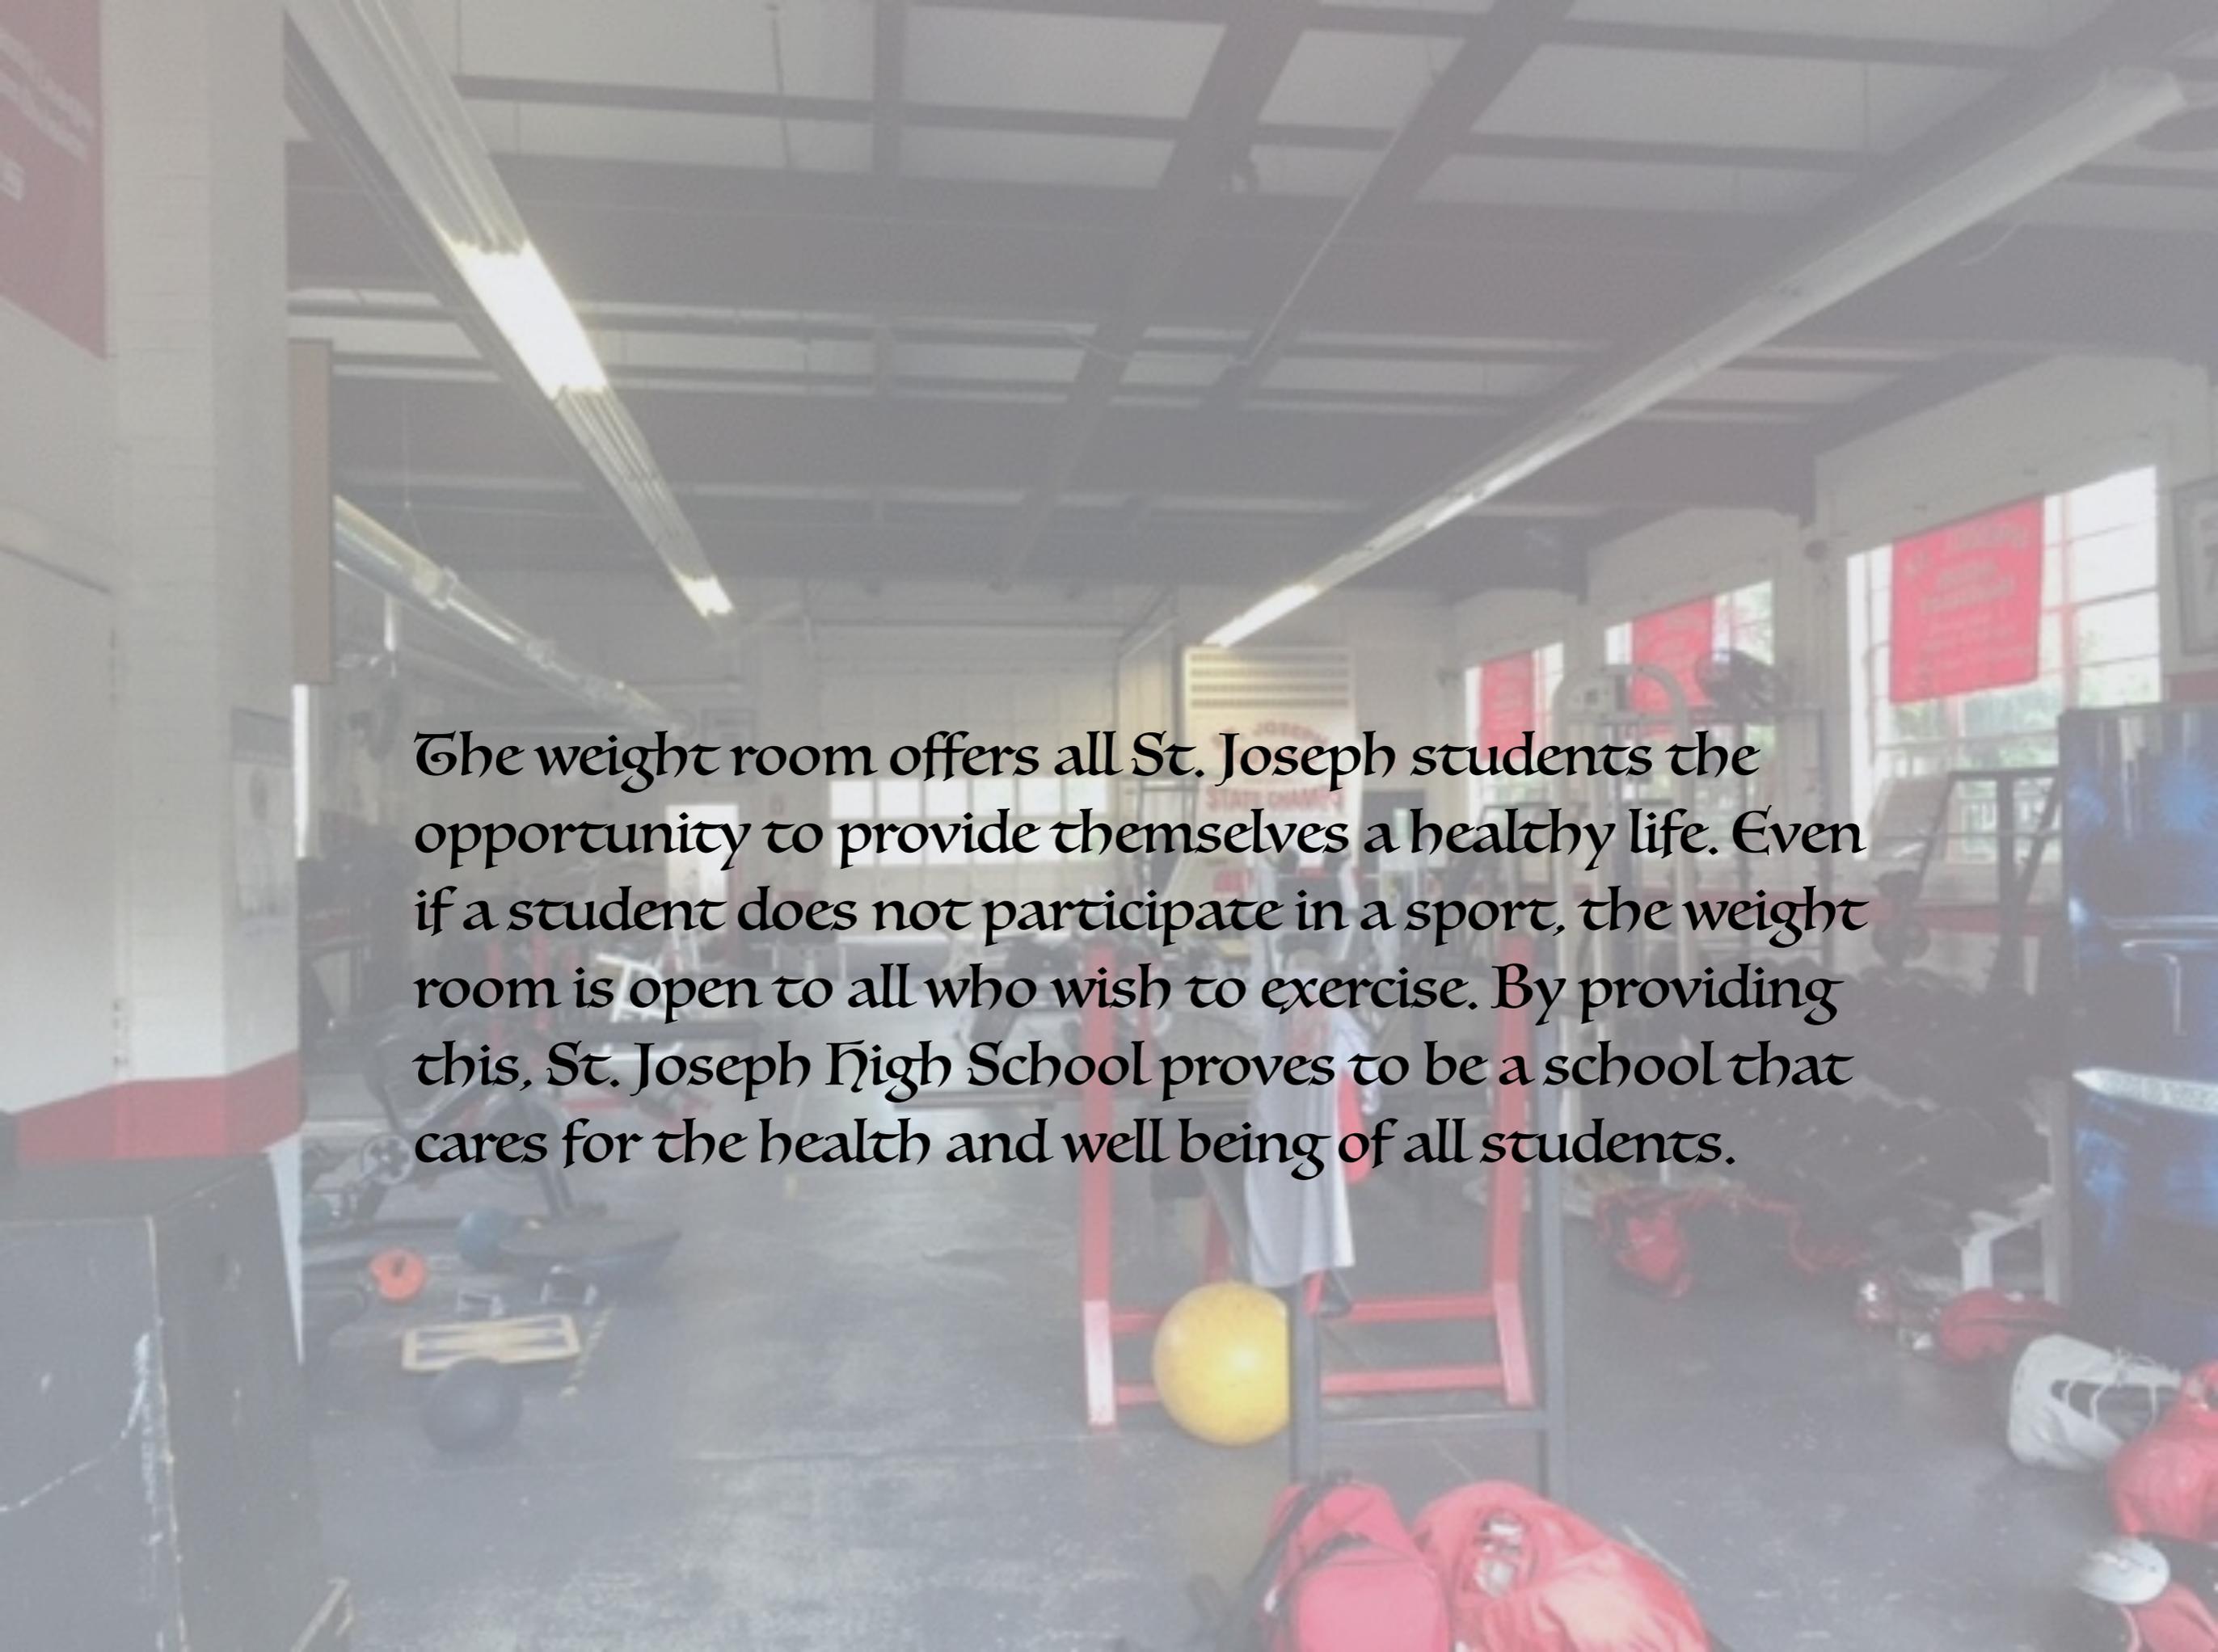

Historic

St. Joseph High School is historic. This building became the first area of learning in September of 1935 where the first class was held strictly for seminarians. As years went on, the school changed to a secondary parish school and began accepting many students. This is where all the early students learned.

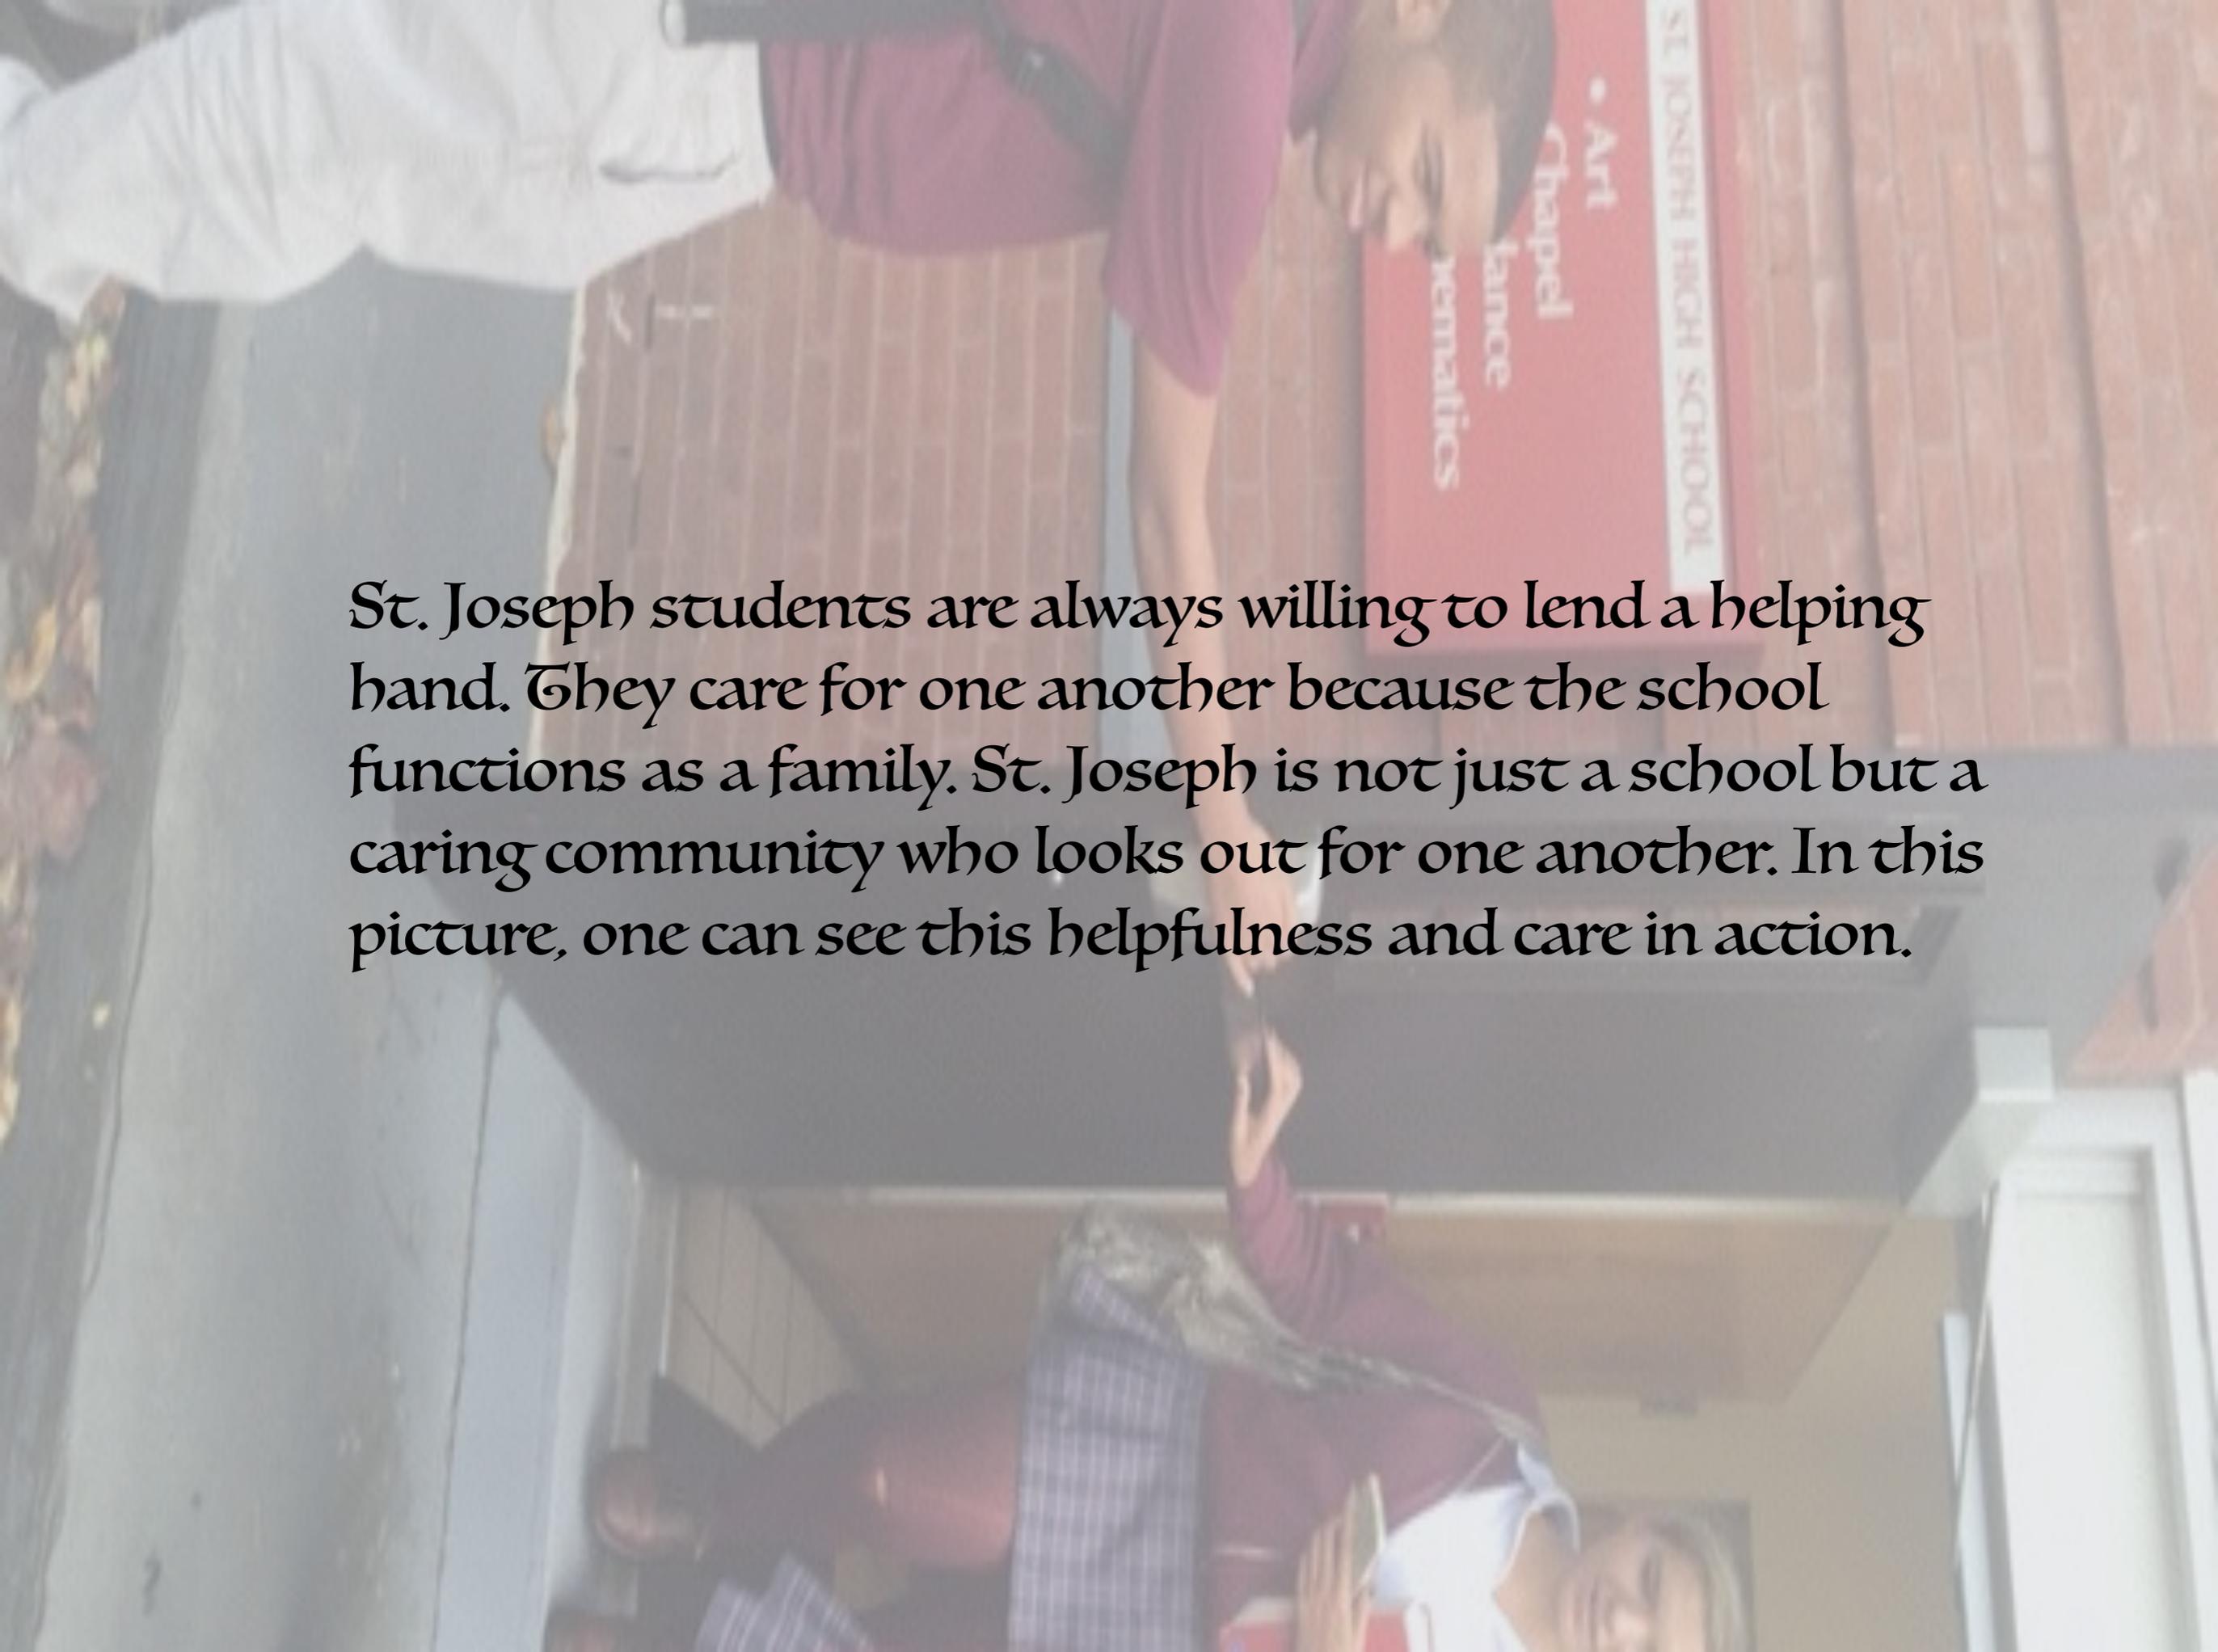

Promotes Fitness

The weight room offers all St. Joseph students the opportunity to provide themselves a healthy life. Even if a student does not participate in a sport, the weight room is open to all who wish to exercise. By providing this, St. Joseph High School proves to be a school that cares for the health and well being of all students.

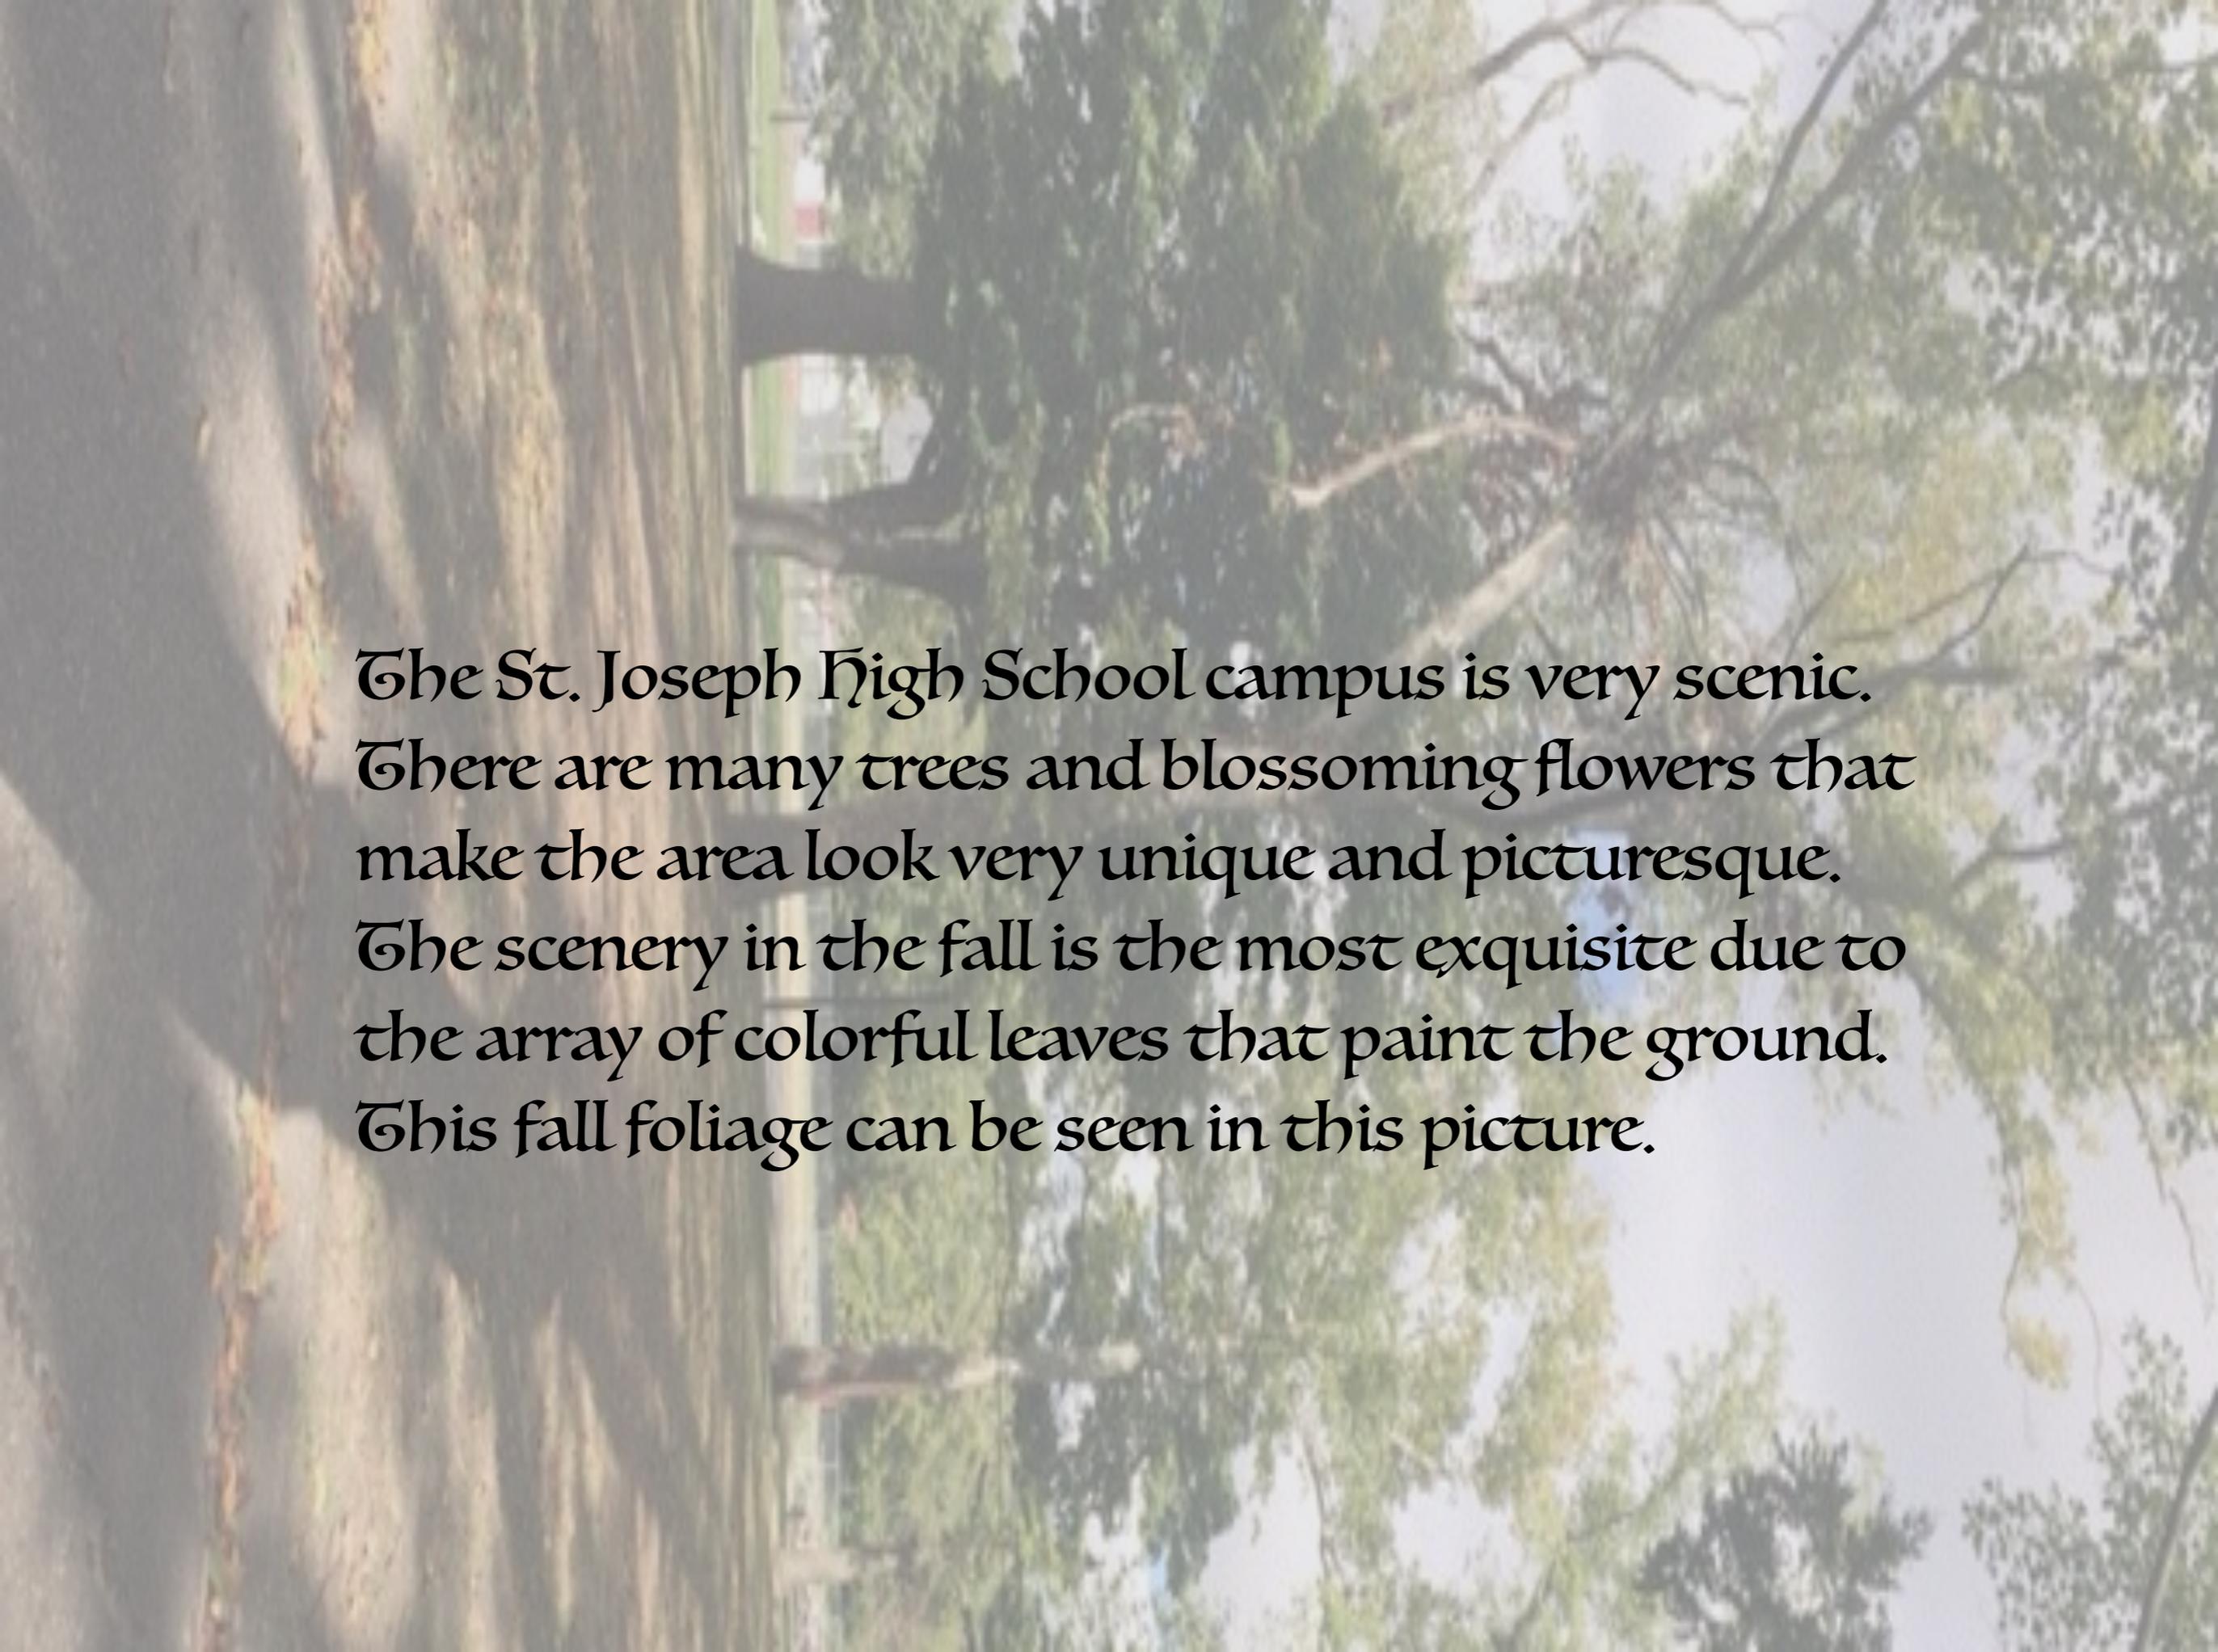

Students are Helpful

St. Joseph students are always willing to lend a helping hand. They care for one another because the school functions as a family. St. Joseph is not just a school but a caring community who looks out for one another. In this picture, one can see this helpfulness and care in action.

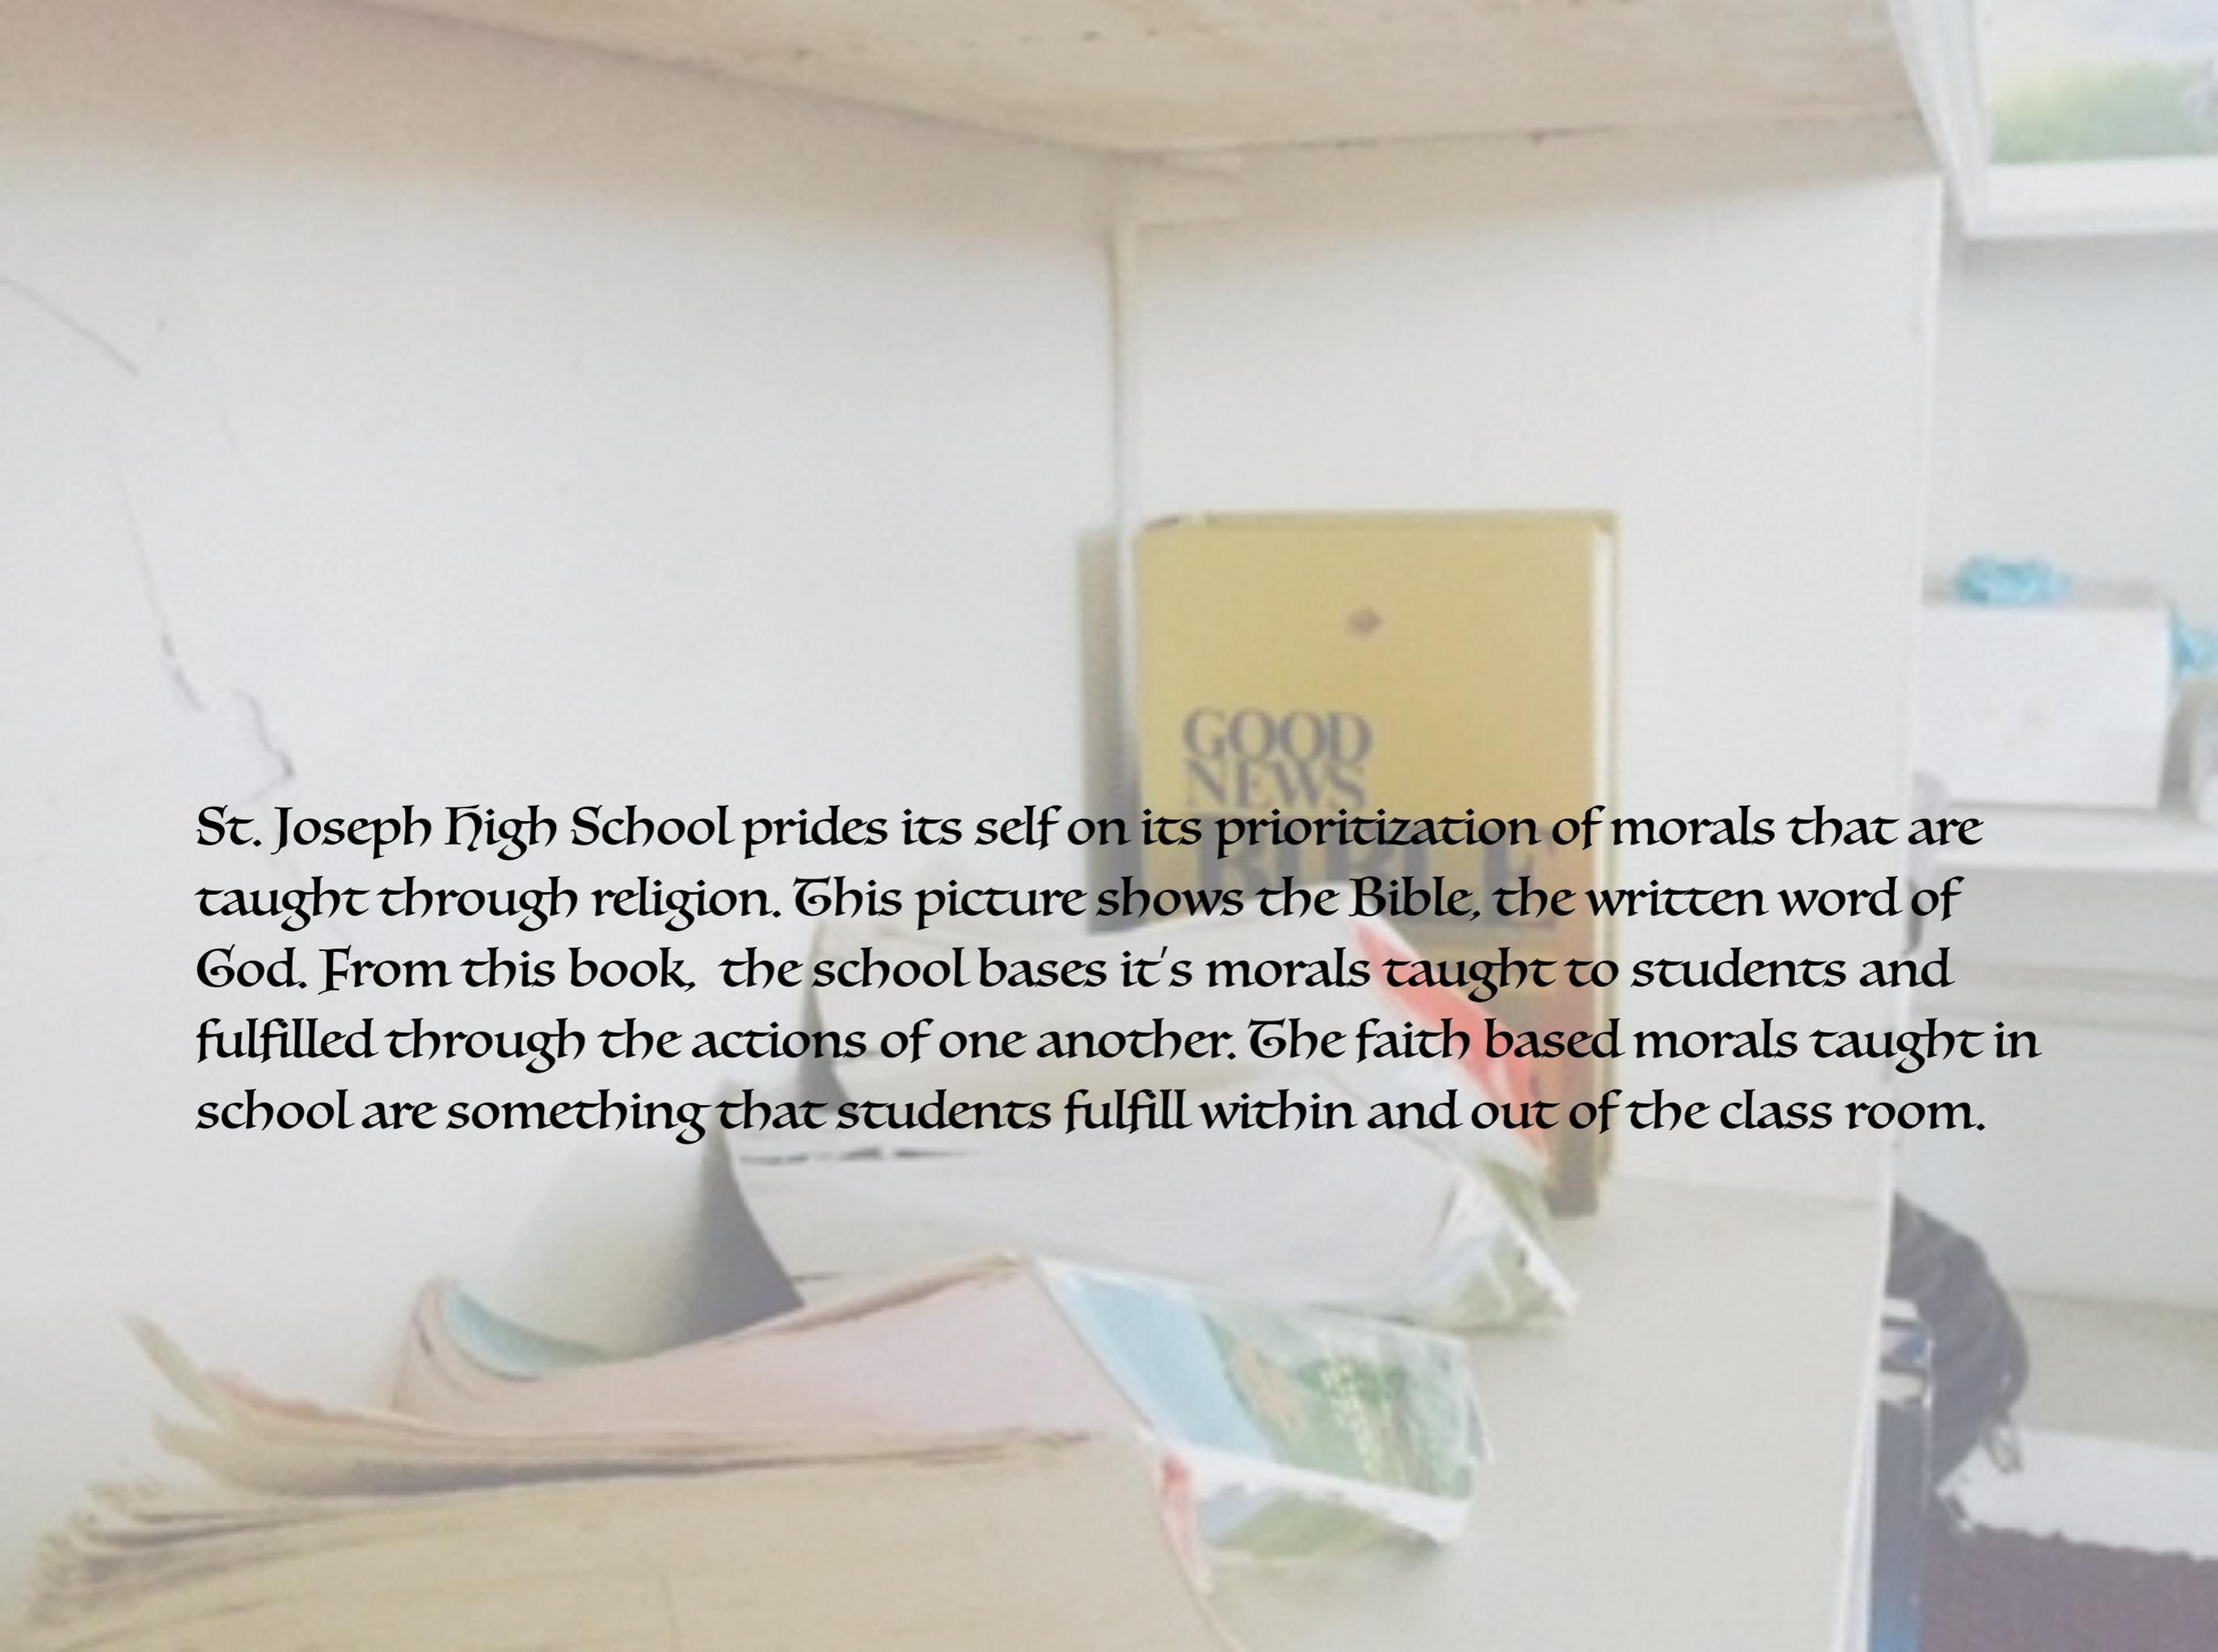

St. Joseph Campus is Scenic

The image shows a large, textured tree trunk on the left side, partially obscuring a building in the background. The building has several windows and a light-colored facade. The background is filled with green foliage and branches, suggesting a lush, wooded campus. The text is overlaid in the center of the image, describing the scenic nature of the St. Joseph High School campus.

The St. Joseph High School campus is very scenic. There are many trees and blossoming flowers that make the area look very unique and picturesque. The scenery in the fall is the most exquisite due to the array of colorful leaves that paint the ground. This fall foliage can be seen in this picture.

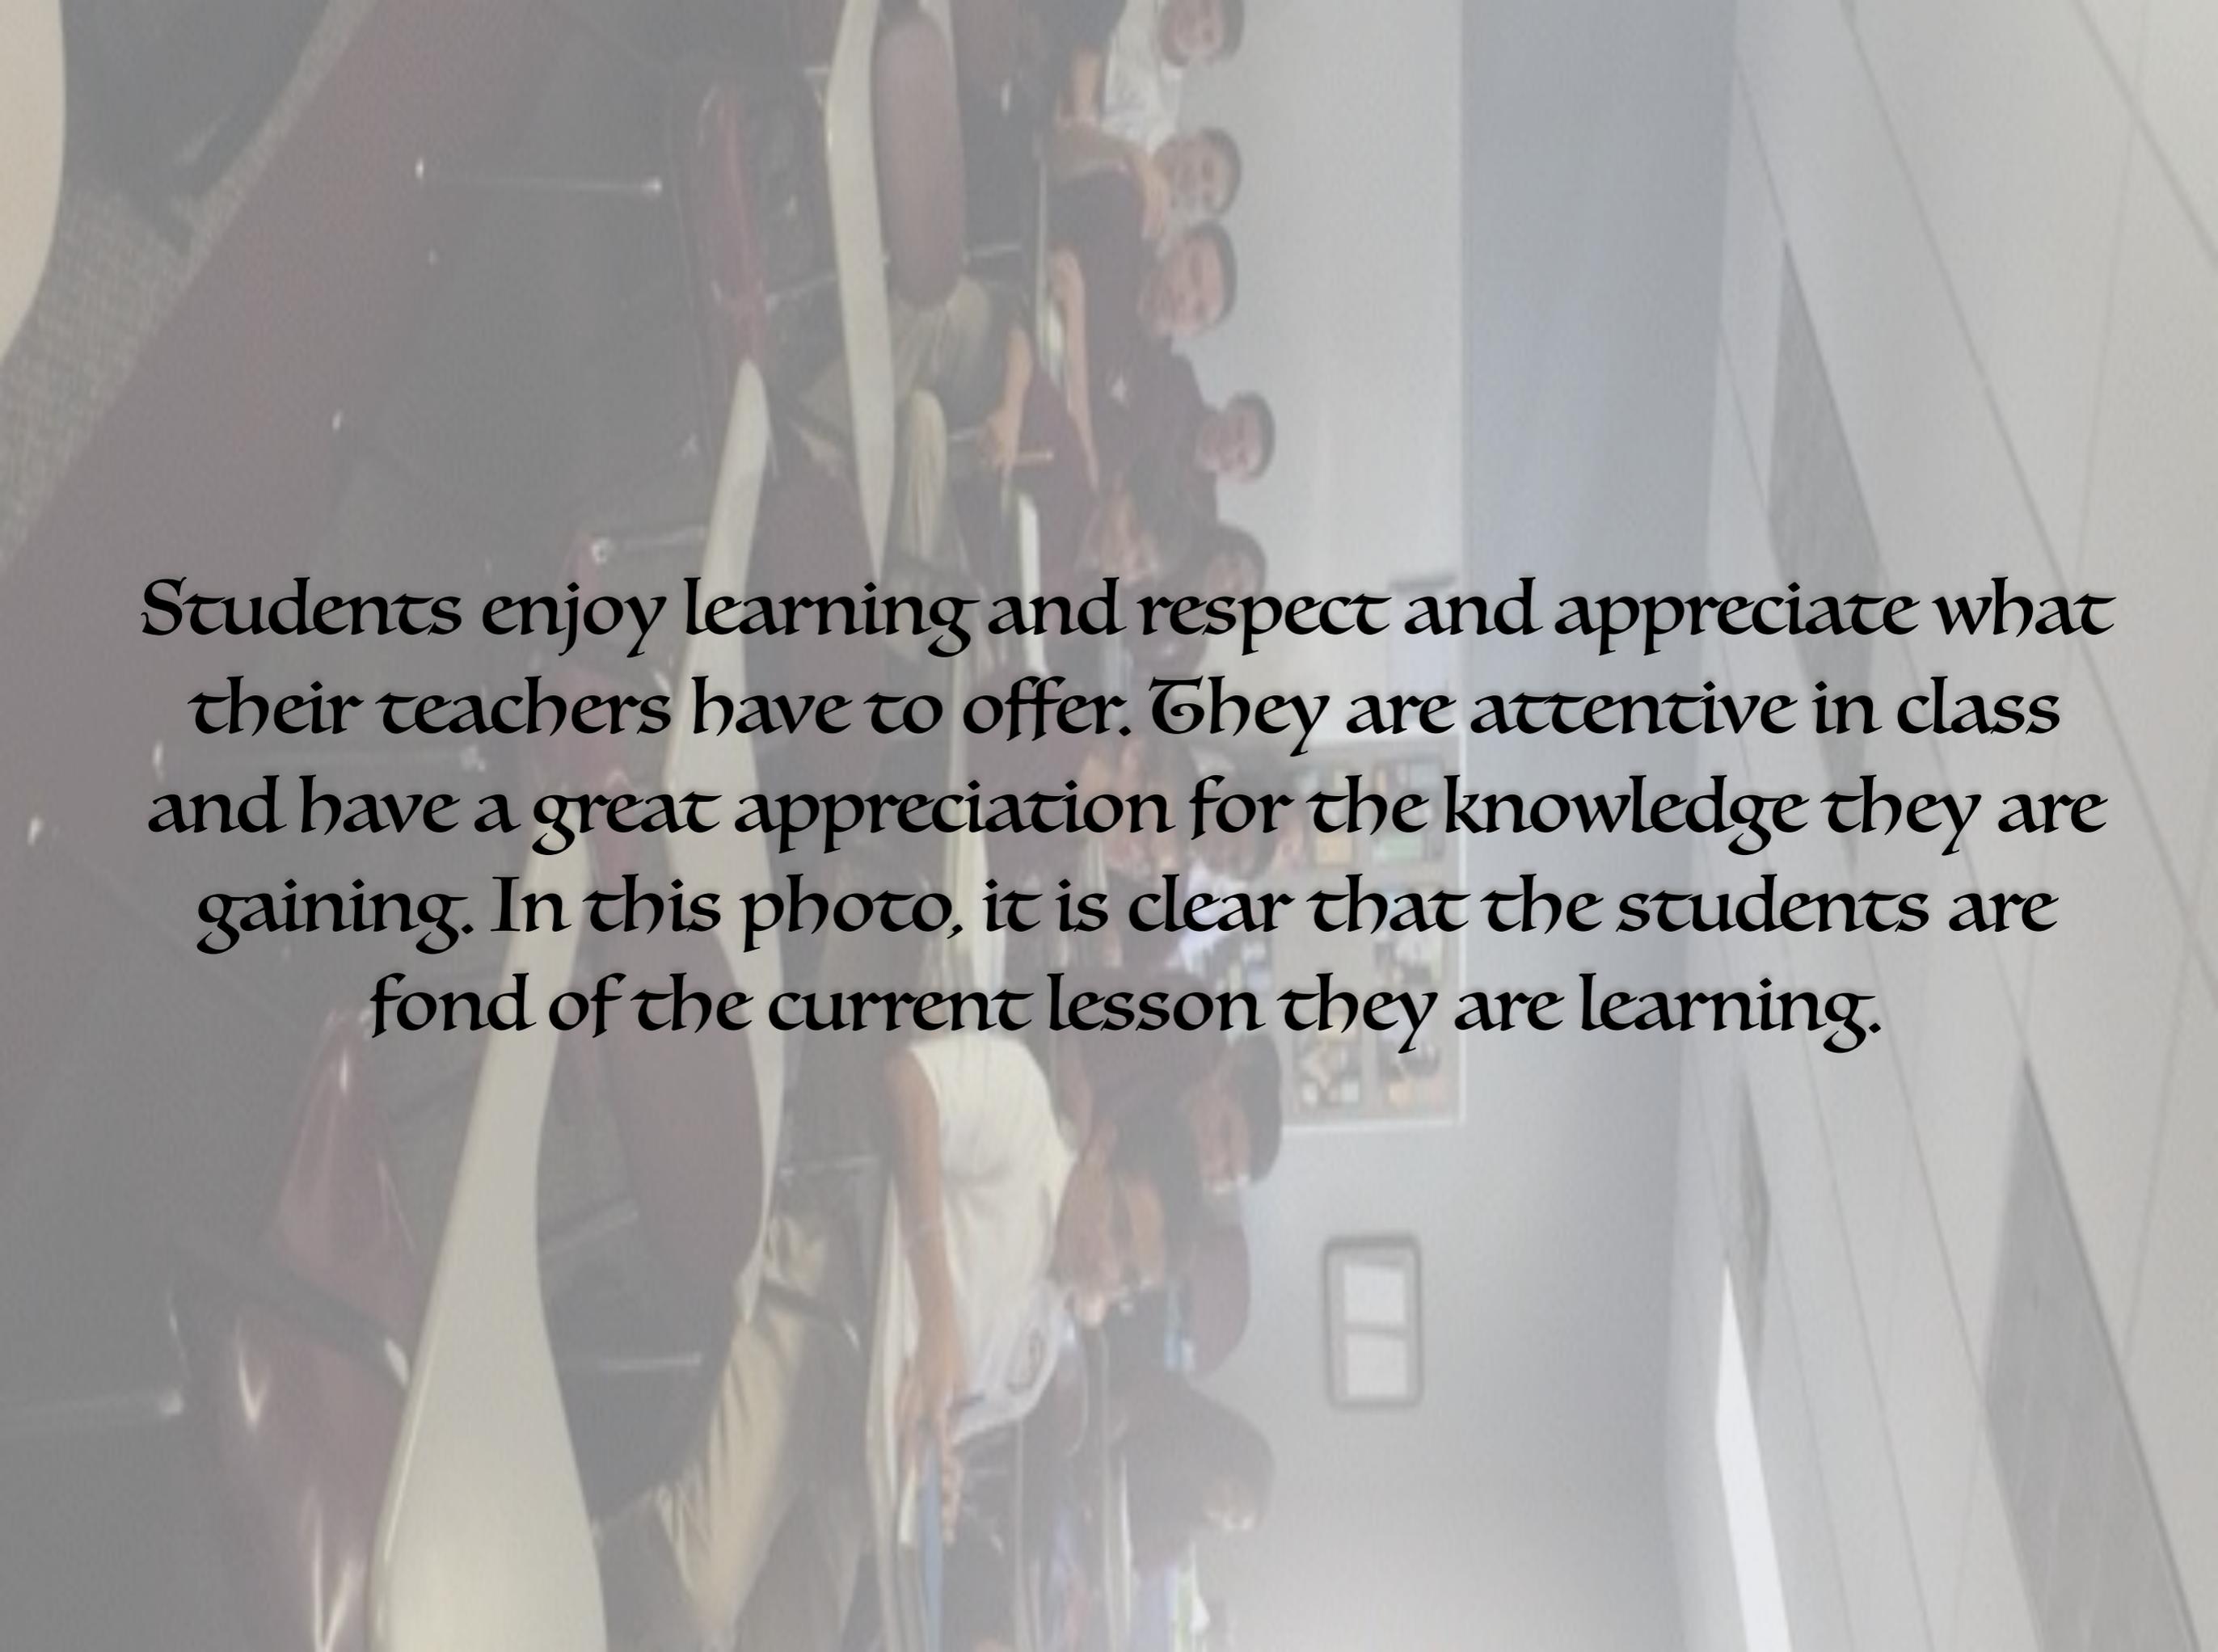

Good Morals Taught

A photograph of a desk in a classroom. In the center, a yellow Bible with the words "GOOD NEWS" printed on its cover stands upright. The desk is cluttered with various papers, including a pink sheet, a blue sheet with a green floral pattern, and a white sheet. In the background, a white wall is visible, and to the right, a window shows a glimpse of greenery outside. The overall scene suggests a study or classroom environment.

St. Joseph High School prides its self on its prioritization of morals that are taught through religion. This picture shows the Bible, the written word of God. From this book, the school bases it's morals taught to students and fulfilled through the actions of one another. The faith based morals taught in school are something that students fulfill within and out of the class room.

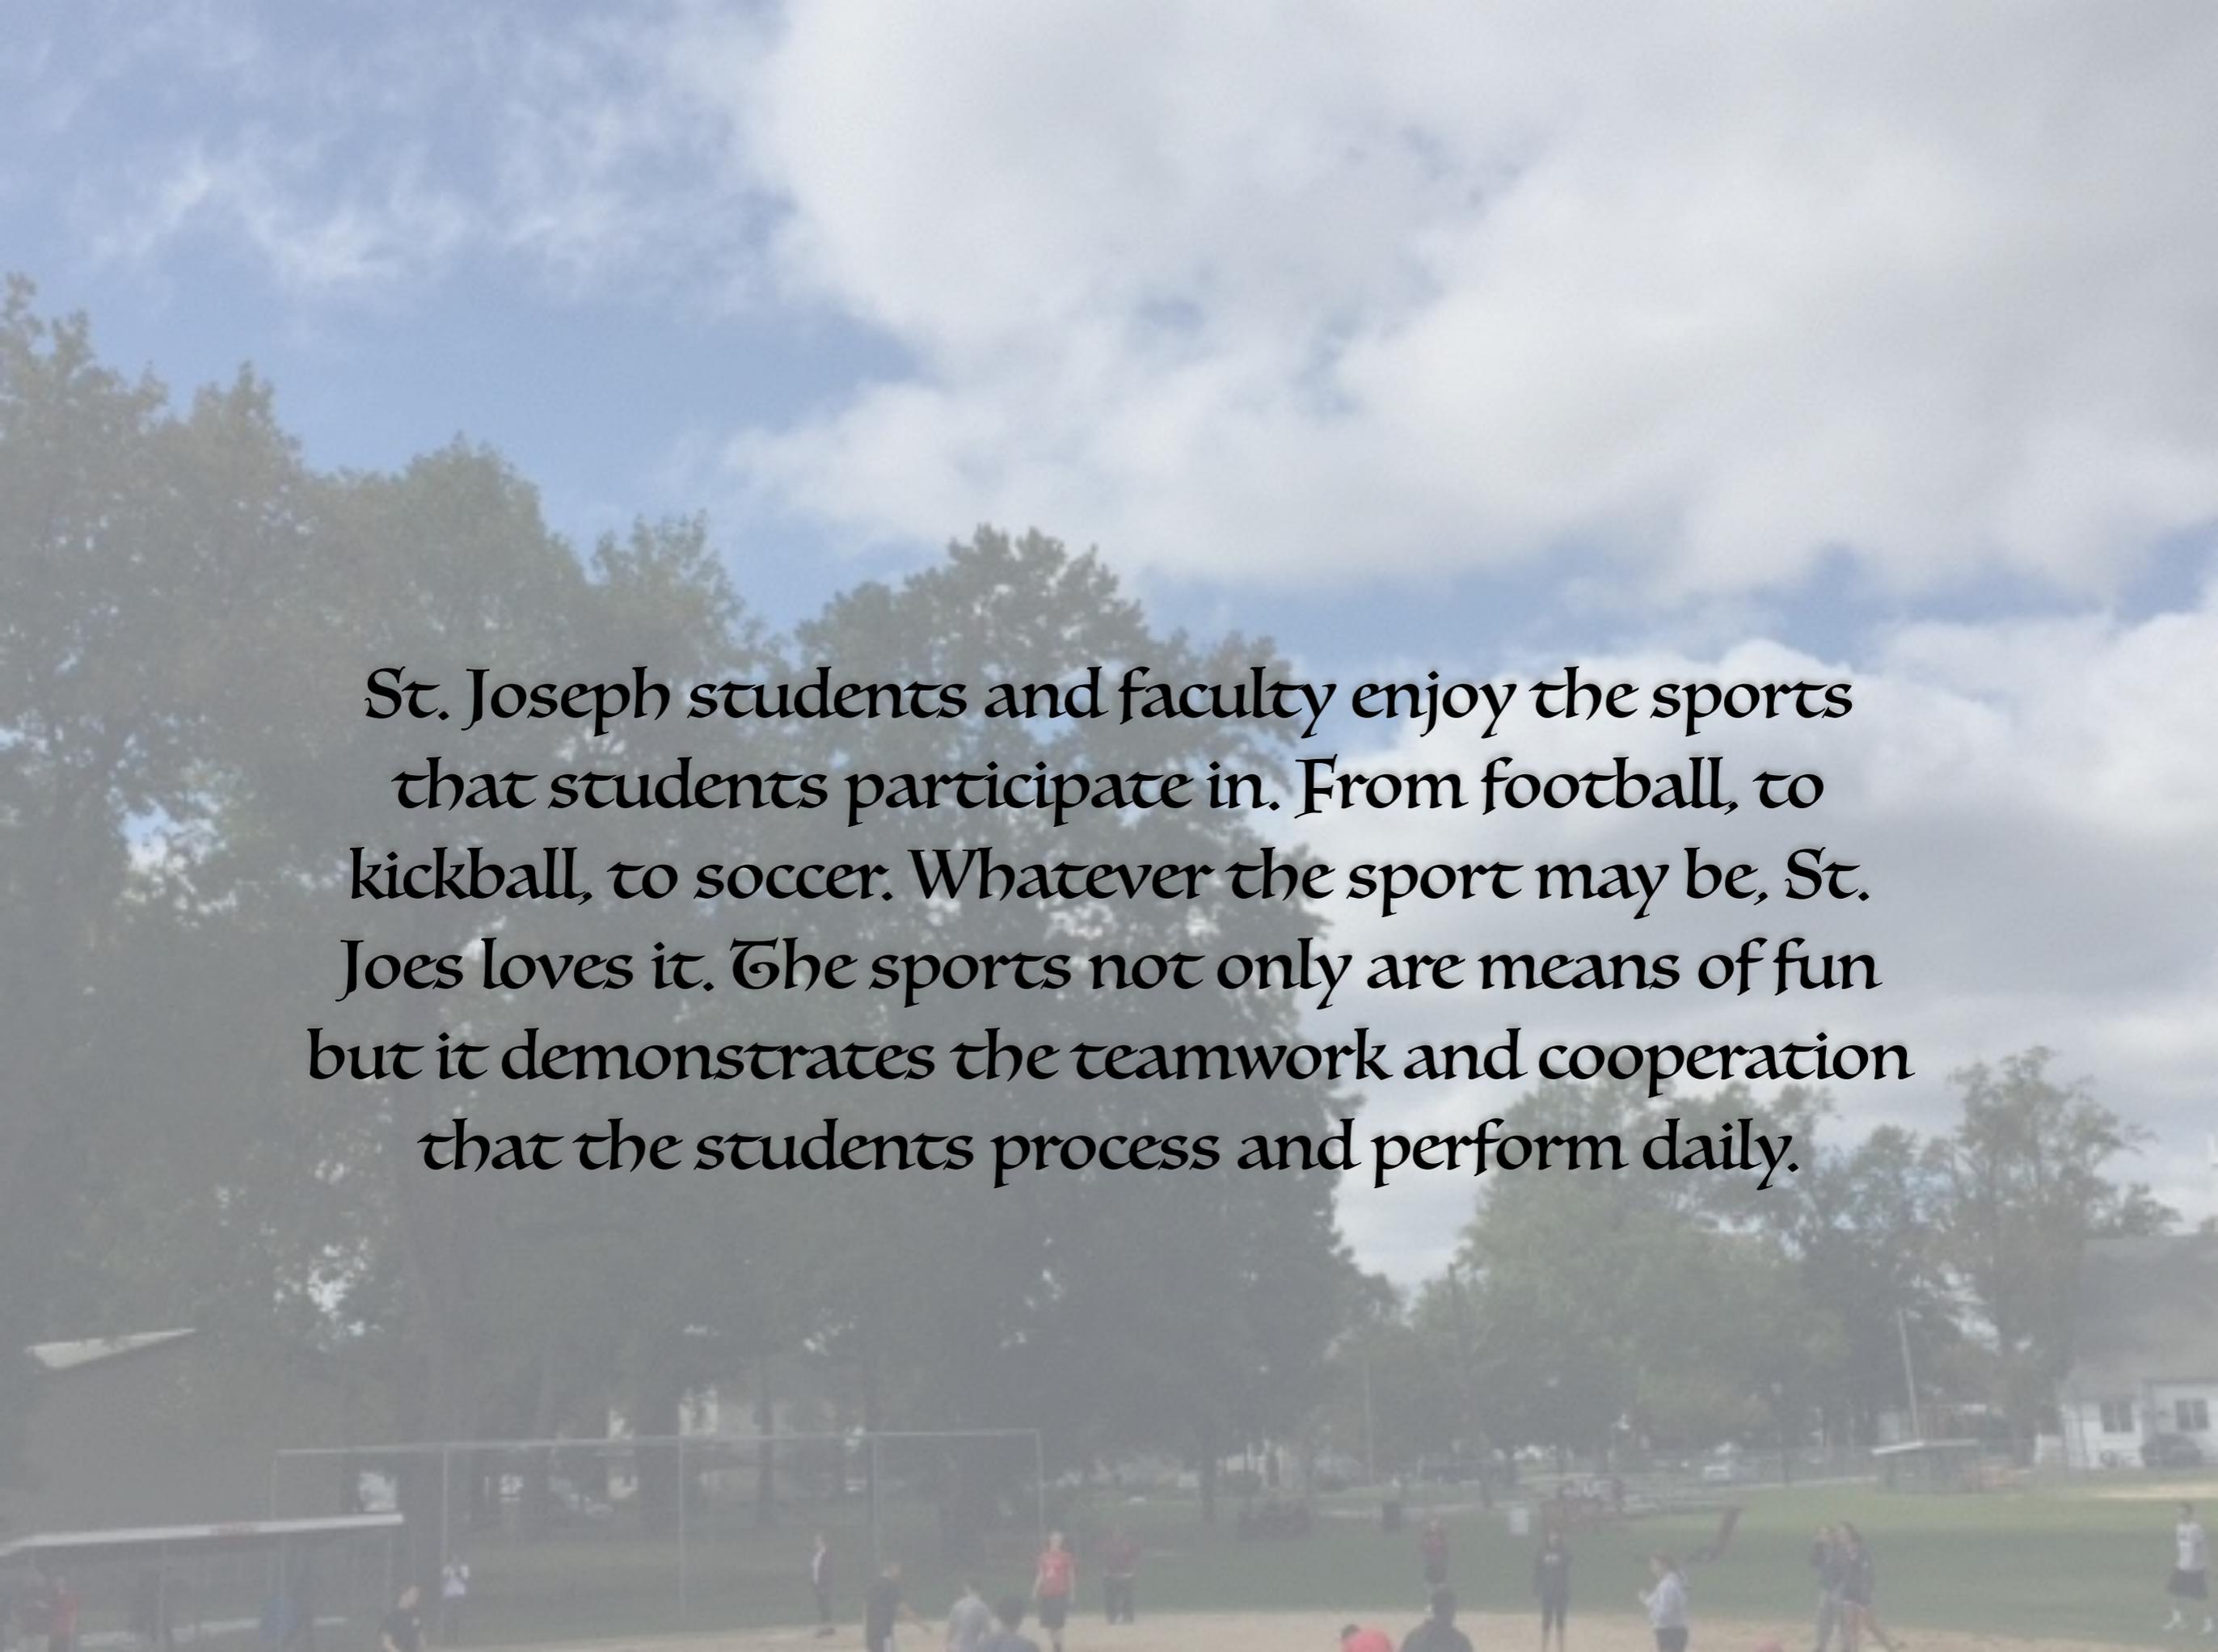

Students Enjoy Learning

Students enjoy learning and respect and appreciate what their teachers have to offer. They are attentive in class and have a great appreciation for the knowledge they are gaining. In this photo, it is clear that the students are fond of the current lesson they are learning.

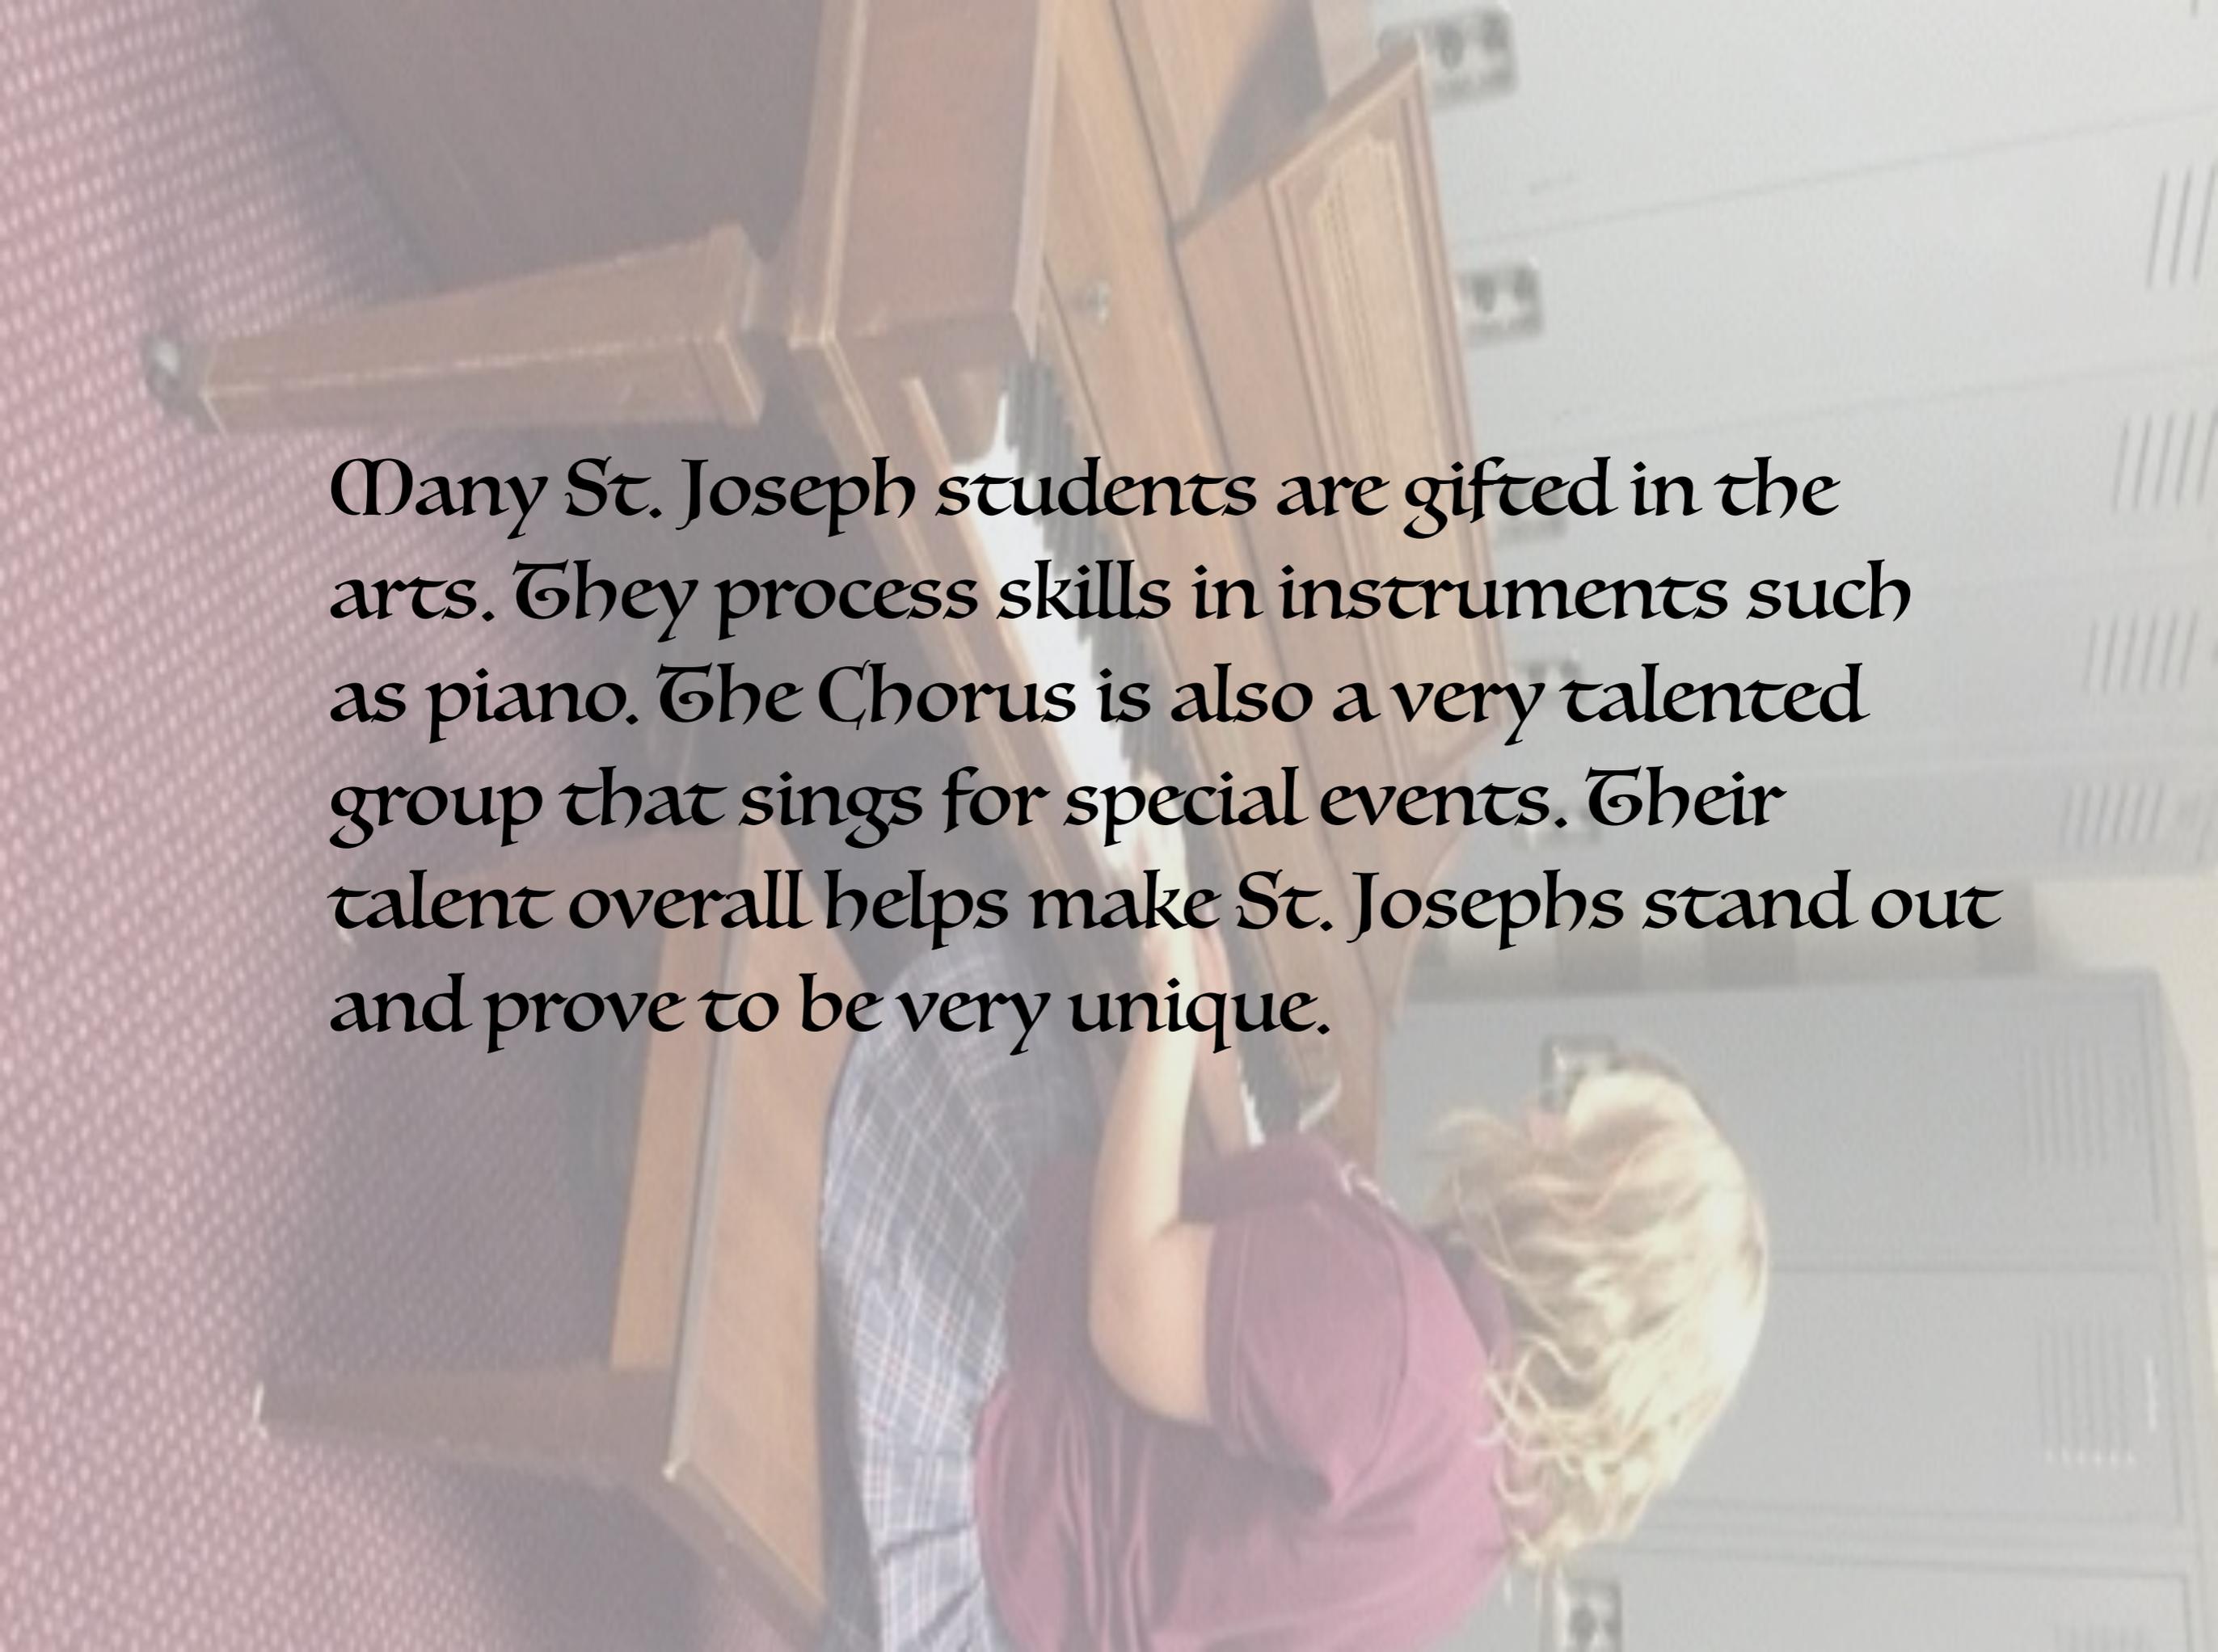

The School Enjoys Athletics

St. Joseph students and faculty enjoy the sports that students participate in. From football, to kickball, to soccer. Whatever the sport may be, St. Joes loves it. The sports not only are means of fun but it demonstrates the teamwork and cooperation that the students process and perform daily.

Musically Gifted Students

Many St. Joseph students are gifted in the arts. They possess skills in instruments such as piano. The Chorus is also a very talented group that sings for special events. Their talent overall helps make St. Josephs stand out and prove to be very unique.

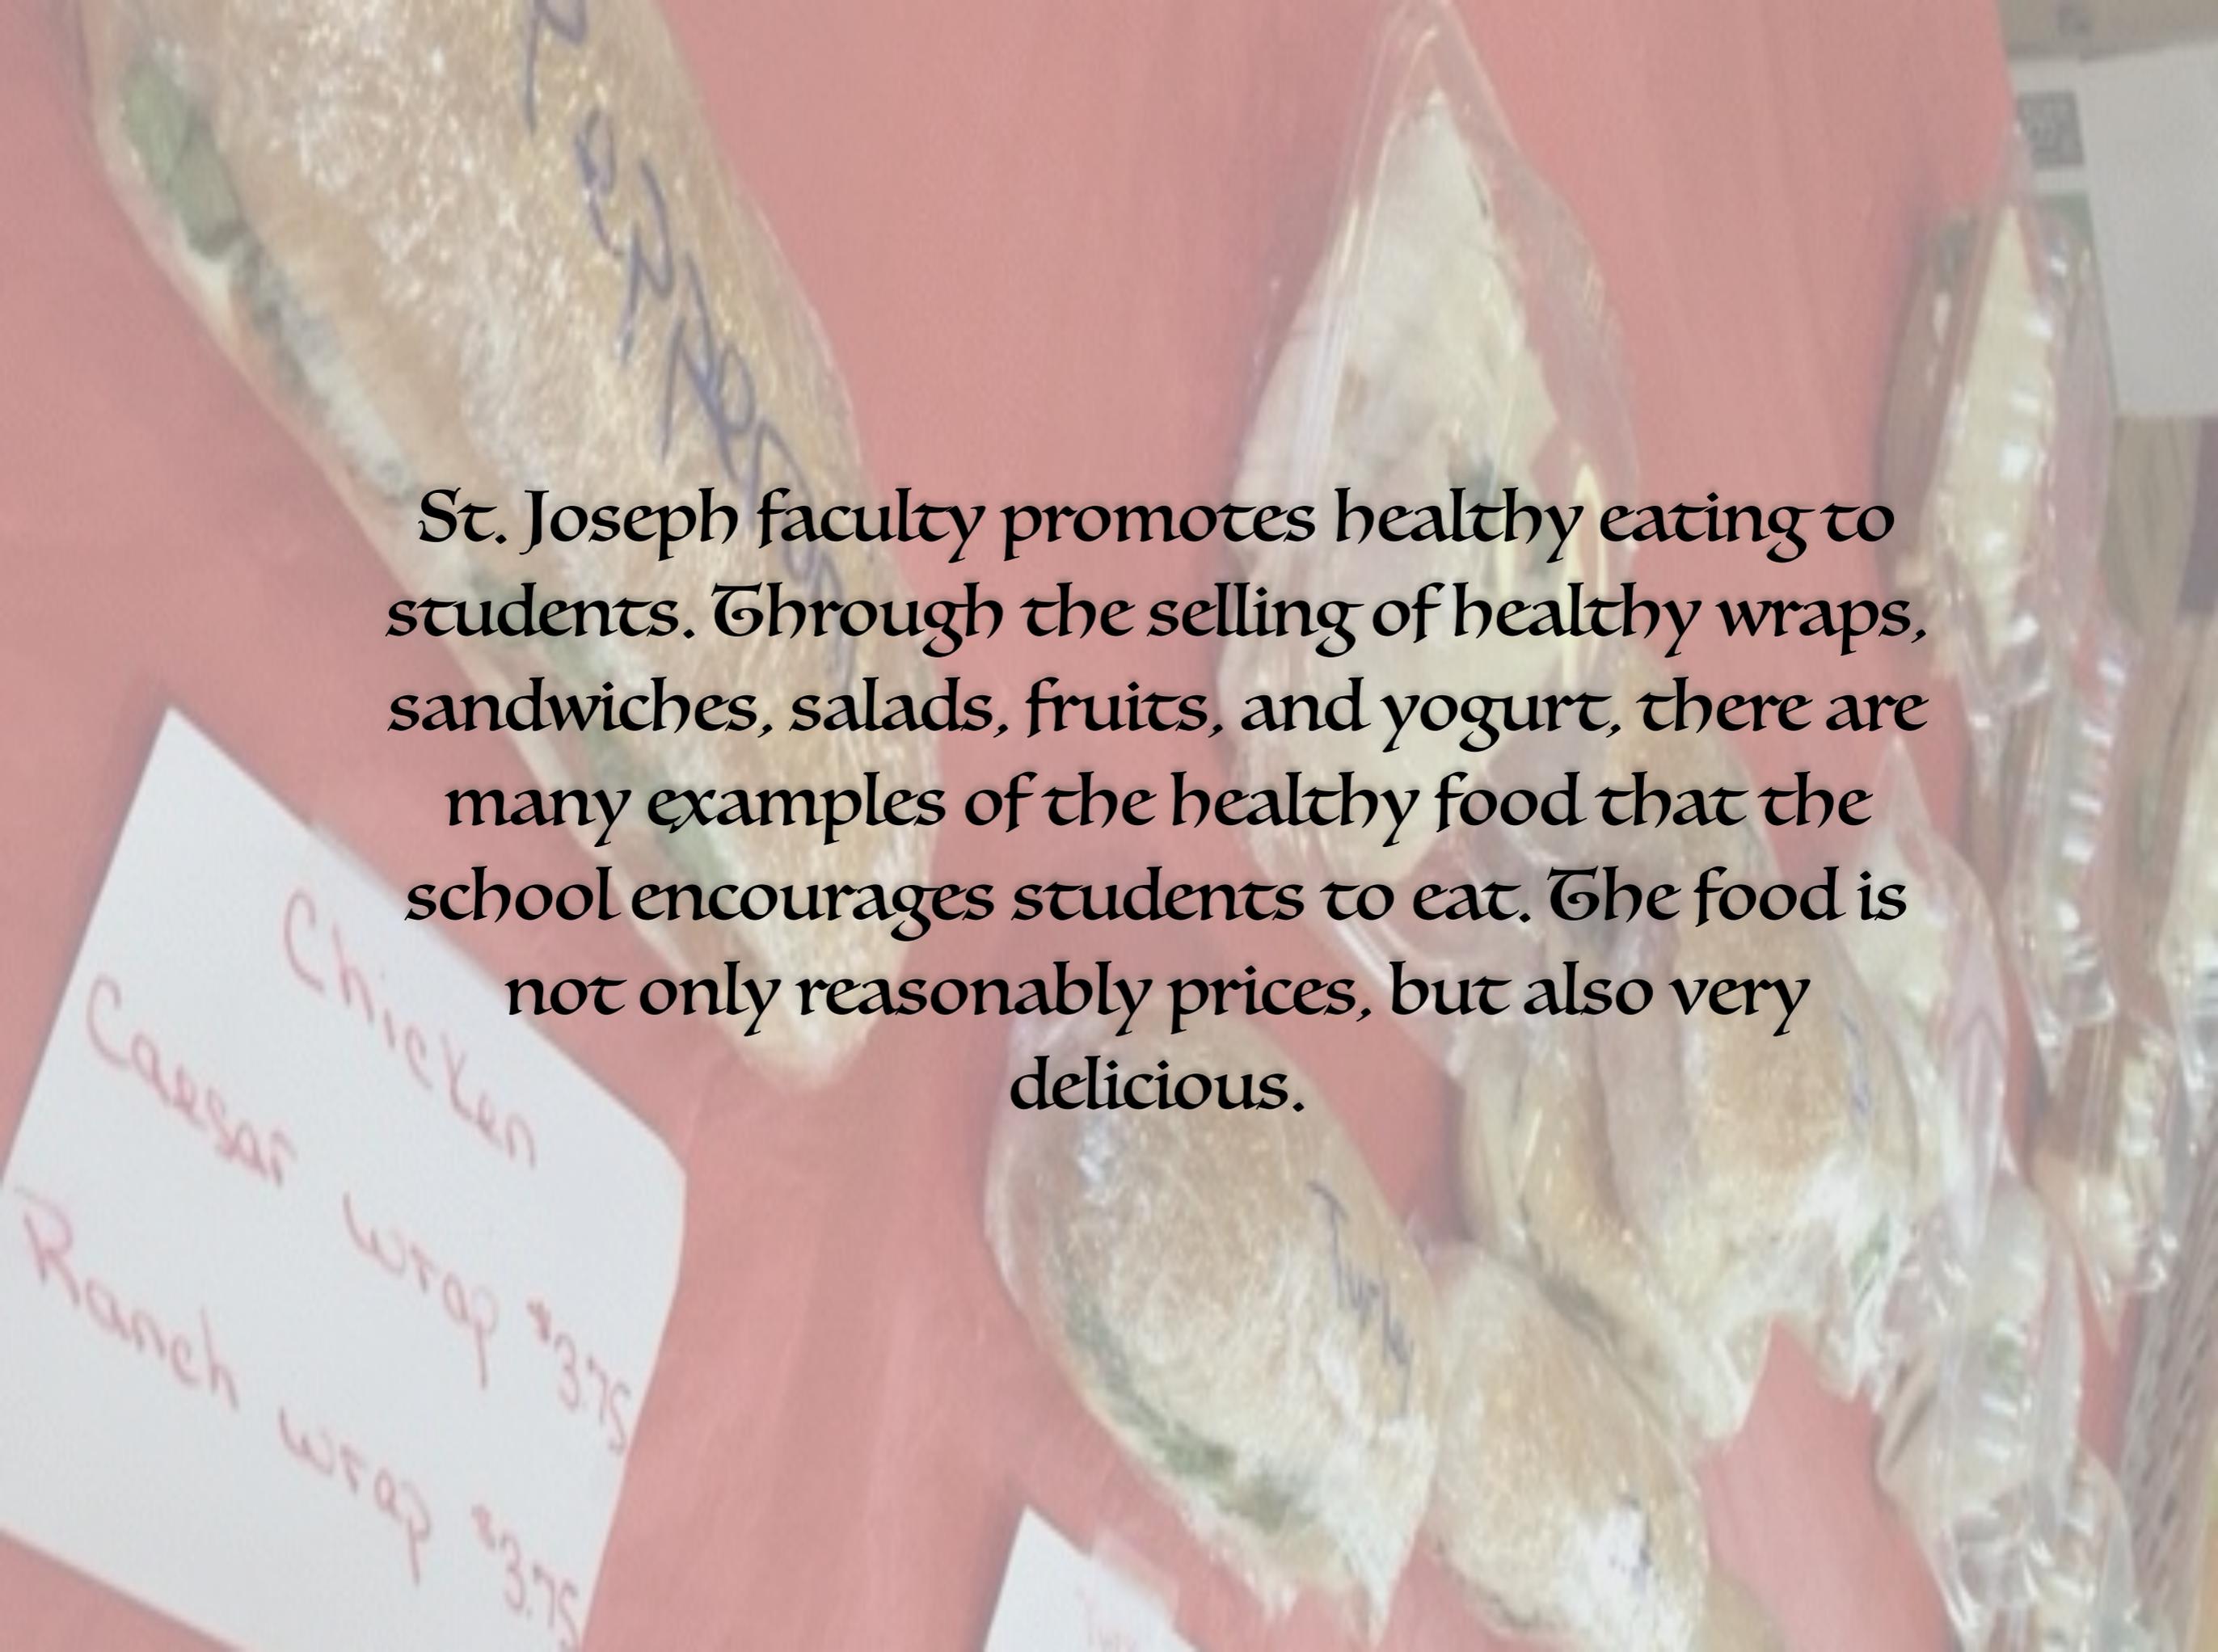

School Spirit

St. Joseph students are very supportive of one another's athletic abilities. They express this through decorating lockers for one another and through their spirit during pep rallies. As much as students love sports, they love their team mates just as much.

Promotes Healthy Eating

St. Joseph faculty promotes healthy eating to students. Through the selling of healthy wraps, sandwiches, salads, fruits, and yogurt, there are many examples of the healthy food that the school encourages students to eat. The food is not only reasonable prices, but also very delicious.
